

To whom it may concern:

I have received notice from the Indiana State Attorney General's Office about the possibility of changing the telephone privacy laws. I am a graduate student at Indiana University, and like every one else, my time at home is limited and very valuable to me. I don't like to screen calls, and if I want to talk to these businesses, I will call them myself. I don't want to hear from them if I didn't originate the call. I feel I have a right to that privilege; as a tax paying and voting citizen of the United States. Please keep in consideration of this when looking to revise this law; I am sure I am not alone in this opinion.

Respectfully,

Patricia Thompson
